

ABSTRACT

A capacitor has a couple of electrodes (17, 21) with a dielectric (20) placed therebetween. At least one of the electrodes is made of copper, and 5 barriers (18b, 18c) for preventing the diffusion of copper into the dielectric (20) are provided between the dielectric (20) and the copper electrodes (17 and 21), respectively.